9) Managing by Values Workshop - November 22nd (8:00 pm - 9:30 pm EST)

Living our values is central to how we operate at CKC. In 2016, we engaged our community in a deliberate conversation on the values that most mattered. We learned a lot, we listened, and we identified the beliefs that connect all us to the sport we love. Our core values of Achievement, Collaboration, Excellence, Inclusion, and Integrity are a reflection of who we are and what we most believe in.

The past few years have been hard. The pandemic has forced us to re-evaluate all kinds of things, including how we are walking the talk with respect to living our values. At CKC, we use our values daily to make decisions and to guide how we work together. We live and breathe these values and our big dream is to see them reflected in our sport from playground to podium. We know we might sound idealistic. We also know that the sport system needs us to be bold in our aspirations as the current state of sport is demanding more from all of us. We must do better. We are committed to doing better.

To support our desire to live our values more intentionally, we've asked Dina Bell-Laroche, a Partner with Sport Law, and a seasoned sport leader with decades of experience, to share some of what she's come to know about values, more humanistic practices, and embodying a leadership ethos that is both humble and resilient. Dina will inspire us through stories, lived experience, and practical application. Come prepared to learn, listen, and share.

To note: this session will be held in English but any materials shared will be translated in both English and French after the webinar.

Participants will receive professional development points in their NCCP Locker account after the session.
